

Connectivity Management

Seamless Deployment

From initial connectivity specification, communications design to testing, risk assessment, cost control and reporting, Ingenico's experienced project management capabilities are integral to the success of its projects. Comprising network specialists, systems architects and consultants, the team supports the client through every stage of the deployment - delivering the right communications solution, on time and on budget.

Proven Service Management

The collection and aggregation of data generated by today's host of wireline and wireless POS systems is a complex business. Switching and cross border routing across fixed, mobile and IP global networks are more complex still. Ensuring security, through SSL encryption, and 24/7 uninterrupted connectivity adds a further dimension. Ingenico takes this pain away. A single managed connectivity service guarantees end-to-end control of the entire transaction - providing complete visibility throughout its journey, slashing total cost of ownership and assuring data delivery from merchant to acquirer - first time, every time.

Global Reach, Local Knowledge

International interconnect agreements, cross-border routing and the need to support multiple communications channels, across multiple networks, and in multiple territories, demands global expertise. Unique domestic markets, diverse local regulation and differing states of telecoms infrastructure maturity requires in-depth local insight. With multiple operator access in over 100 countries and an installed base of 15 million terminals in more than 120 countries, Ingenico combines the widest global coverage with the most comprehensive local knowledge - massively reducing the cost and complexity of global connectivity management.
